

The May 17th wedding of restaurant owner Lisa Galloway to software executive Michael Rollins was a Napa Valley-inspired fête at the Wolfer Estate Vineyard, Sagaponeck. Pale roses in ivory, cream and champagne accented the vineyard's fragrant beauty, and ivory lace linens and vintage candelabras lent a softly lit, turn-of-the-century charm. The 120 guests, who flew in from all over the country, sampled Wolfer Reserve Chardonnay and Cabernet Franc, lobster salad, mini cheeseburgers and crab cakes served with vineyard rustic flair before dancing the night away to the rousing strains of the Hank Lane Orchestra. How they met: In the Hamptons, two years ago. The proposal: In a nod to the wine-themed wedding to come, groom proposed on a trip to wine country, California. With a romantic fire lit, overlooking the majestic Pacific Ocean, Michael subtly dropped a ring into Lisa's wineglass. Happily oblivious, Lisa drank almost to the bottom and Michael had to point out the ring to prevent her from swallowing it! Bridal fashion choice: Silk Monique Lhuillier cap-sleeved creation, with Spanish-style lace-trimmed veil. Bridesmaids in strapless silk cappuccino, flower girls graced ceremony in ivory gowns. Wedding planner: Susan Caldon of Wolfer Estates. Flowers by Sag Harbor Florists. Cuisine: Guests partook of Chateaubriand, messinese-encrusted sea bass, a savory truffle pasta, fingerling potatoes with pancetta and sage, and summer squash. Sumptuous desserts included warm molten chocolate cake, berries with fresh cream, biscotti and traditional carrot and lemon wedding cake. Fun facts: The caterer, Fresh Flavors Catering, is owned by famed instructor at The Culinary Institute – from western-style barbeque rehearsal dinner, to the wedding fare, to French toast and Bloody Marys at the Sunday brunch at a Watermill estate, the cuisine received enthusiastic raves by all; Bridesmaids were given a waterproof Zodiac watch for fun in the sun, while groomsmen took home iPods – preprogrammed with Oakland Raiders music and recent games! Honeymoon: St. Barts, scheduled for July. Photo Credit: Anthony Vasquez.
